Jared R. Knight : 101 Creative Programs for Children before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 101 Creative Programs for Children:

2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. let's have fun!By SunnyThis book has, all in one place, tons of ideas for what to do with a group of kids. Many are familiar favorites, and many are new to me. How helpful to have a place to look when you need to entertain kids in a positive, active way!

A great collection of programs and activities designed for the development of children's physical skills, cognitive exploration, social interaction, and character development. Provides programs that will expand a child's vision of who he or she is, allowing him or her to be a part of a team while being mentored by adult leadership. Offers activities in a variety of areas, including confidence and self-worth, imagination and creativity, careers, nature, healthy habits regarding physical activity, geography and history, water fun, music, dance, and drama, arts and crafts, citizenship, and adult mentoring. Contains over 100 clear photographs and illustrations.

About the Author Jared R. Knight is the manager of a program for more than 5,000 children each year at the BYU Aspen Grove Family Camp, where he has been since 1996. He is also the president of the Southwest Section of the American Camp Association, where he is also a Standards Visitor. Knight has also served as the director of development for United Way of Utah County, and as a camp director for the Boy Scouts of America.
