following review helpful. Clever designs, incomplete instructionsBy always skepticalLoved the clever designs. But these things are way too difficult for a kid to build. I wanted to build these with my eight-year-old, but all she could really help with was punching out the paper parts from the book. The instructions were ambiguous in many cases and just plain wrong at least once. It's fairly easy to build parts inverted or inside-out if you're not successful at guessing the correct orientation. I had to invent clamps and cauls along the way -- you may find it useful to have a few clothes pins around for clamping pieces together while glue is drying. In the end, it's a very satisfying collection of small projects. 3 of 4 people found the following review helpful. Seemingly easy but poor directionsBy 3kidstightbudgetOf the three books with paper models I purchased, I expected these to be the easiest because the pieces punch out instead of needing to be cut out. However, the directions on these were sometimes confusing and we often completed them in a different sequence in order to put the pieces together so the models would work. It was often difficult to get the pieces to hold together with glue from glue sticks, so we did resort to some double stick tape at times. These models had more dramatic motions than those from the other two books I purchased, and, with adult help, would work for kids ages 10 and up who have good focus and are detail oriented. A fun project, but lots of time is needed - this could be an all-day or multiple day project, easily. If you are good at building things, I would recommend these, as long as you read ahead and anticipate when you would be better off doing the steps in a different order.

Theres room in everyones house and heart for a paper pet. Heres something special for every child (and adult) whos ever dreamed of owning a kangaroo, gorilla, or goat: a collection of six paper pets that ACTUALLY MOVE. Making them is as easy as 1, 2, 3. Just: Press out the pieces. Follow the simple folding and gluing instructions to assemble. Turn the handle and see them go! Theres even a place to write your pets name. And best of all no howling or meowing, no cleanup, and no walking or feeding required! WATCH.- The gorilla beat his chest- The chickens peck- The kangaroo hop- The dog bark- The goat shake his head- The cat walk
