I don't want to forever ask my niece to send my soap choice, so I considered buying this book and make my own soap. I really have no idea how soaps are made so I learned a great deal of knowledge in this book. Acid plus base is the main formula, listed herein are the best oils and their uses as acid as well as other natural chemicals for better result. Prepare your things and start right away with the soap making 'recipes' found at the end chapter. Though I wish the author to include more 'recipes' and state the expected skin result of each, I had enough to get started. 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. Fun hobby! By Matt Soap making is a great hobby. I've tried it recently with my cousin, who is nine years old, and helped pass the time. They didn't turn out perfect by any means, but she loved making it and wants to make more already, even though we made a batch of eleven, which should last us a while.. This guide laid out all of the ingredients we needed and the methods on creating the soap (we used the Cold Process Soap Making Method). All in all, if you are considering on making your own soap, whether you're new to this or need a refresher, buy this book. I'm not entirely sure if there is any other guides needed, but this is a good starter guide. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Beautiful knowledge By Steve R I want to have a soap business because it is popular here and I want to learn how to make unique soap. I researched about how to make organic soap and I found this book. This book shows the ingredients needed to make organic soaps. I learned the basics on equipment and safety. I also learned the methods for making my own organic soaps. I have fun doing soaps now and I now they will like my organic soap when I sell this to people.

About the Author "A bookworm with a passion for helping people!" Hi, I'm Emily MacLeod. I grew up in the suburbs near Vancouver BC. Growing up I was very shy, quiet, and kept to myself. My most favorite hobby was reading. I would often be sitting in the hallway during lunch hour reading a book by my locker while the other children were playing, socializing, and horsing around. I always felt more comfortable lost in a book. Over the years, my passion for reading and learning enabled me to acquire knowledge in health and wellness. Much of what I learned I applied to my own life and saw wonderful results. I also found that my knowledge often spilled over into other people's lives and helped them as well. I loved being able to help others so I put two and two together and began writing books that would help people. My books have since helped many people around the world live healthier, happier lives. It's always wonderful to know that my writing has enabled someone to live better. My hope is that my books will enhance your life in the same way that writing them has enhanced mine.
